

Newsletter

Term 4 24-25
Friday 7th March

Attendance

The classes with the best attendance this week are:

- Badgers (Y4) & Otters (Y3)
- Seals (Y3)
- Robins (YR))

Upcoming Events:

- Week of 10th March—Science Week
- 10th March—Year 5 Recorder Festival
- 11th March—Otters Class Assembly at 8:55am
- 12th March—Shakespeare Club Performance
- 14th March—Year 2 Choral Performance

Dear Parents/Carers,
Recently we have had lots of STEM challenges for our Key Stage Two children. This week, our Year 3 children enjoyed the K'Nex Challenge on Monday where they had to build a vehicle that could transport their shoe. Year 4 engaged with the Lego challenge and had to design and build a Lego house with specific criteria and be aware of the cost involved. They all really enjoyed these challenges and worked together to solve the problems.

Today we have started our Science Week and Years 1-6 have all had exciting Science workshops where they have been holding bubbles, making clouds and looking at germs! We will continue our Science Week next week in school with lots of Science investigations and a focus on famous scientists.

OPAL UPDATE

Thank you to everyone who is already donating wheeled suitcases and child size pushchairs for OPAL. Our children really love using these at lunchtimes. Please continue to send them in. This week you will have noticed a willow dome being built on the edge of our school field. This will be another area the children can use during lunch and it also has 30 log seats inside for a class to use during the day. We are looking forward to watching it grow and develop. A huge thank you to ForPS who have supported us in purchasing this for the school.

Next week, we have another busy week of music and Shakespeare performances as well as enjoying our Science Week.

We hope everyone has a good weekend.

Mrs Robson
Headteacher

PROUD MOMENT...

Well done to Foxes class who shared their learning all about the digestive system in their class assembly this week. They shared lots of interesting facts, spoke clearly and have obviously enjoyed this topic.

E-mail: office@riverside.medway.sch.uk

01634 623500

This week we are celebrating....

Ethan - Owls

Thursday 6th March 2025

WALT Use effective descriptive language.

The forest seemed to stretch on for miles, trees getting in her way as she braved the intense wilderness. Suddenly, she smelt a stench so sickening she nearly puked. It was the smell of gas. People were here.

As Rose pulled back the leaves in front of her, she was met with a monstrous, horrific sight. A great beast of a building stood in front of her, behind a mob of prisoners who appeared severely dehydrated. Frozen to the spot, their bodies looked cold and empty, like this environment had sucked all the life out of her. She dared a step closer, to dozens of faces eagerly eyeing her.

They were everywhere she looked - the helpless slaves were tumbling over the ground like ghosts, caged in this dehumanising land. Her stomach churned - why was this happening? The ~~shabby~~ half-dead figures, seemed stripped of their freedom, Rose could almost visualise the manner in which this ~~town~~ place which had ~~them~~ bound to death treated them. The <sup>overhead</sup> wire seemed to electrocute their hearts every time Rose heard it, they probably know she couldn't help them. She attempted to leave, to pretend it just wasn't there, but the weight of the secret held her back. She heard bullets being heavily fired, followed by a shriek of pain, triggering uproar throughout the camp. She felt vulnerable on these grounds, but just the same their lives depended on her sanity. Before thinking, she broke the cloud of sorrow over the captors by saying, "I'll be back," before she was swallowed into the depths of the forest.